Beverly Hills Hotel presents an extraordinary culinary extravaganza

Dinner Time Stories

The luxurious Beverly Hills hotel in Umhlanga, is delighted to host the littlest animated chef in the world, Le Petit Chef, in an exclusive Durban debut, of a Dinner Time Story.

Le Petite Chef is world renowned, having served up breath-taking, interactive dining experiences in several countries around the world.

In this elegant, immersive 3D projection mapping installation, guests get to travel the world without ever leaving their seat. Designed to follow the “footsteps of Marco Polo”, Le Petite Chef, creates mouth-watering masterpieces as he journeys along the great explorer’s famous route.

And now, he has arrived at the Beverly Hills hotel where resident executive chef, Nathania Wasserman, leads the gourmet adventure. Six courses, two hours, and an unforgettable dining extravaganza.

“We are thrilled to bring this unique dining experience exclusively to Durban. This is a culinary experience like no other, guaranteed to mesmerise your senses and take you on an indelible journey through time. As a first for the city, this mind-blowing experience is one not to be missed,” says John Aritho, general manager Beverly Hills hotel.

Through this global dinner theatre event, technology, and culinary deliciousness come together creatively, to entertain all the senses, and redefine dining out.

The delectable six-course dining experience begins with a complimentary glass of champagne with diners also having the option of a wine pairing, all especially chosen to complement the dishes served. This is an experience to be shared at communal tables of eight and twelve, with only 52 guests per show (while still boasting this being the largest global event yet). The menu is never disclosed beforehand but rest assured that executive chef Wasserman, will take care of the culinary delights of the evening. Vegetarian, vegan, halaal and Kosher friendly options are available. The dining experience is authentically sourced, making this the most affordable way to travel and taste your way across a continent, visiting Arabia, India, the peaks of the Himalayas and finally, China, before returning to the point of origin, Marseilles, France.

The entertainment has been described as an immersive dining experience that combines cutting-edge 3D technology, visual artistry, theatrical storytelling, fresh ingredients, unique flavours, sounds and tastes.

The brainchild of artists Filip Sterckx and Antoon Verbeeck of Skullmapping fame, along with concept creator, Nadine Beshir, Le Petit Chef has been brought to South Africa by Paul Rouessart, owner of 100% EVENT.

“This animated optical illusion presentation of creative mastery is absolutely magical, using state-of-the-art techniques to project Le Petit Chef on your plate,” says Rouessart.

Le Petit Chef is celebrating his arrival in Durban with an early bird launch special of R1 100.00 per person, thereafter, increasing to R1 295.00. Child-friendly shows are scheduled for Sunday lunches with all other shows strictly for children over the age of 10 years.
